One snowy December 23rd at the North Pole, Santa was getting ready for Christmas Eve. His reindeer were in good form, the elves were loading up his sleigh with presents, and his 'Naughty and Nice' list was up-to-date. Everything was going to plan. But then he tried on his favorite red and white jacket... Oh no! He couldn't button it up!

Luckily, the North Pole's number-one tailor came to his rescue. The talented Holly Frost worked through the night to make sure Santa's jacket would fit him well the next evening. By the time he proudly took off on his sleigh, he looked as smart and as jolly as ever.

When Santa returned, he asked the talented Holly to design and make some uniforms for the elves in his workshop. Using her favorite Christmassy red and green colors, she did a wonderful job. Delighted, the elves of Santa's Workshop gave her the nickname 'Stitches'. Nowadays, Holly repairs and updates the elves' uniforms, sews together new ones, and makes sure that every Christmas Eve, Santa looks his very best.

All About Sugarsnow Cottage

Holly Frost's home, Sugarsnow Cottage, is warm, welcoming and gorgeous to look at. Christmas candies adorn the outside like shining jewels, and the inside is just as charming. As a clothing designer, Stitches has an excellent sense of style. Each room is decorated with festive fairy lights, ornaments and of course, holly boughs, in her favorite red and green.

Holly's favorite place in the whole world is a small room upstairs, just under the chimney. With windows on three sides, her sewing room is always bright and cozy, with amazing views across the snowy North Pole landscape. A large dresser and plenty of drawers store fabrics and ribbon in all sorts of patterns and colors, and her trusty sewing machine sits right in front of the biggest window. Two adjustable mannequins stand in the corner - one elf-sized, and one Santa-sized.

When she's not working on Santa and the elves' uniforms, Stitches still loves to be creative in her sewing room. She just loves to design and make clothes for her friends, and is always in high demand. The North Pole may be cold, but with Holly's help, the elves can stay warm and snug, and still dress to impress!

ELF LETTER

Dear ENTER NAME

Christmas is coming! Are you excited? I'm Holly Frost, Santa's Tailor and Uniform Designer here at the North Pole.

You know Santa's red and white suit? Well, I keep it in tip-top condition. It's not an easy job, but would you still recognize him without it?

I'm not sure Christmas would be the same without Santa's outfit, or without all the twinkling lights and decorations. And so, I'm writing to ask you a small favor. Santa's Christmas Eve journey is a very long one. I wonder if you could leave out a little hand-made decoration before you go to bed, to cheer him up when he visits? He just loves it when children get into the Christmas spirit, especially when they're creative about it.

It doesn't have to be fancy: you could recycle some paper into a paper chain, or even draw a picture. What's important is that it comes from the heart. And if you manage to use my favorite colors, red and green, Santa will definitely tell me all about it!

With lots of love,

Holly Frost
