Current Role: Grand Scrollkeeper of Santa's 'Naughty or Nice' List

Long ago at the North Pole, a little elf named Candy Bell wanted to work for Santa Claus. Finally, she was old enough to get an after-school job, and she just couldn't wait!

When the young elf turned up at Santa's workshop, he wasn't quite sure what to do with her. The elves who worked for him had all finished school. But Candy was so eager. After talking with her parents, Santa agreed to take her on as a part-time apprentice.

At Santa's Workshop, Candy tried many different roles. She wasn't good at them all, but she always did her best and worked so cheerfully, the other elves nicknamed her 'Joybell'.

Years passed, and one day the very important - but very old - Grand Scrollkeeper needed an assistant, to keep Santa's 'Naughty or Nice' list up-to-date. And Joybell turned out to be excellent at working out which boys and girls were good as gold, who was trying their best, and who was just naughty! When the older elf retired, Candy became the new Grand Scrollkeeper, and promised to judge each and every child fairly.

Peppermint Manor

All About Peppermint Manor

After each shift at Santa's Workshop, Candy Bell heads home to her beloved Peppermint Manor. It's a big, cozy house, well-insulated against the freezing North Pole weather. On the outside, it's decorated with candy canes and other sweet treats, proudly living up to her name!

Cheerful and friendly, Candy often has friends visiting her pretty home. Sometimes they'll make dinner together, or watch Christmas movies - her favorite! Other times, fellow elves come to ask for her help. Since she's well known to be an honest and fair judge, the North Pole's residents often turn to Joybell when they're having an argument. They usually don't notice that all she does is help them resolve it by themselves!

Candy knows that sometimes, others can appear to mean, but really, they have good intentions. The way to get up and become friends again is to understand the person who is upset, then truthfully say we're sorry. Candy encourages her fellow elves to talk and listen. When this happens, and to always say sorry when you're wrong. After all, there's no need to be angry. We can work together to make things better.

ELF LETTER

Dear Enter Name Here

Christmas is coming! Are you excited? I'm Candy Bell, the official Grand Scrollkeeper of Santa's 'Naughty or Nice' List. In other words, I keep Santa's register of naughty and nice boys and girls up-to-date, so he will know whose houses to visit on Christmas Eve.

I'm very pleased to say, at the moment you are on the Nice List! If you can keep up the good work, you'll wake up to some lovely surprises on December 25th.

Remember, even if you slip up from time to time, you can still be on the Nice List. Nobody is perfect all the time. As long as you don't behave badly on purpose, and you say sorry (and mean it!) if you do something wrong, Santa and I can see this. But if you do manage to always be good, we'll know this too, and we will be extra proud of you!

Keep doing your best, and don't forget to spread some Christmas cheer - it's nearly here!

With love,

Candy Bell
